As expert on board/speaker and photographer, she has travelled from the Black Forest to the Black sea and the Danube Delta. She has worked as a curator on a variety of projects, for example The Spirit of Film, her photography collages, for the British Film Academy, Africa, Europe and America, and Mirror, Mirror on the Wall. Her work has been exhibited internationally, including the Indira Gandhi National Centre for the Arts and IID in Delhi, The National Museum of Ethnography, Slovenia, the National Creativity Centre, Malta, the Roma Summit of Cordoba, Europe House, the British Film Academy, the European Commission. Her creative practice includes collaborations with composers. Her large-scale glass installation with public engagement about interpreting memory, Tears, Apples and Stones, at the Contemporary Art Centre in Slovakia, featured music by two C4 composers from New York. Her current collaboration with a composer is writing a libretto based on her own play, The Hat, featured by Opera on Tap NY, and reviewed as endlessly clever and funny. Her writing has been published internationally, including open Democracy, Philosophy Now, Prentice Hall Macmillan, Culture Magazine, Times Editions, Logos, OUP. Here There, Now Then, her project for the Arctic Circle expedition of artists and scientists, has received an Arts Council Award, and it is to be featured at the Royal Institution, the oldest independent science body in the world. www.ardo.org

Research field: Biosciences

Summary of project: Based on Dr. Suzuki's experimental results: 1) indicating the possible functional interplay between constitutive and inducible nitric oxide synthase (cNOS and iNOS respectively) in human astrocytes (JBC, 1995, 1997, 1999), 2) on alfa-bisabolol, an essential oil of chamomille, exerting a strong apoptotic action in tumor cell lines without affecting normal cell viability(BBRC,2004)

Research field: Medicine

Summary of project: In vitro and in vivo assessment of bone-marrow stromal stem cells seeded in several scaffolds with potential applications in Tissue Engineering; long-term effect of dendrimers on osteoblast differentiation.

Personal achievements: Miguel Oliveira has been awarded 20 prizes/honours, being the most prestigious one, The Jean Lera Award 2015 (Young Scientists and Group Leaders under 40 years old) attributed by the European Society for Biomaterials for its Outstanding Contributions within the field of Biomaterials. One of the technologies developed by Miguel Oliveira "the meniscus implants" is in the permanent collection of the National Museum of Sports, Palácio Foz, Lisbon - Portugal. For his scientific achievements the Municipality of Guimarães (PT), in the person of the City Mayor Dr. Domingos Bragança, attributed a Vote of Honor (ref. 92-SEG-JX dated from Mar. 19th, 2015). He has been nominated in 2014 as Director of Basic Science of the New D. Henrique Research Center at Porto (CERTIFIED as FIFA MEDICAL CENTER). 2013- Investigador FCT (starting grant); 2012- BES INNOVATION AWARD 2012-HEALTH TECHNOLOGIES AND BIOTECHNOLOGY- "Porto-Knee Testing Device (Portugal); 2012- Prize Basic Science Travel Grant, Human meniscus segmental characterization: building the basis for tissue engineering, 15th European Society of Sports Traumatology Knee Surgery and Arthroscopy (ESSKA) Congress, Geneva (Switzerland); 2011- Prémio Prof. Doutor Jorge Mineiro/Prof. Doutor Carlos Lima, Portuguese Society of Orthopaedics, XXXI Congresso Nacional de Ortopedia e Traumatologia, Estoril (Portugal); 2008- TERMIS-EU '50 Best Ranked Abstract' AWARD, Porto Meeting, Portugal. Doctor Miguel Oliveira is graduated in Biochemistry by Porto University (2001) and concluded the doctorate degree at University of Minho/AIST (Portugal/Japan) in 2009. Presently, he is an Assistant Researcher at the PT Associate Laboratory ICVS/3B's at University of Minho (UMINHO), Portugal. His research interest is focused on the exploitation of Nanotechnology applied to Tissue Engineering and Regenerative Medicine. The success of his work resulted in more than 100 publications, 2 book, 40 book chapters, and more than 150 oral/painel presentations (of which 30 upon invitation), in the most relevant national and international meetings of the area. He was named inventor of 10 patents, and in 2012 the first commercial product spun out from his research activities, and it is currently commercialized by Stem matters (see www.stemmatters.com/). In addition, he is member of the advisory board of the Journal Recent Patents on Corrosion Science and Journal ISRN Biomaterials is one of the International Scholarly Research Network (ISRN), and referee in more than 20 scientific international journals. These numbers are impressive for a Young Researcher, who has an h-index of 24 (i10 of 47) and received ~2500 citations. He is supervising several post docs, PhD and MSc students. For further information please go to <http://www.3bs.uminho.pt/users/migueloliveira>. Was awarded one of the most prestigious European awards in 2015, The Jean Leray Award 2015 (Young Scientists and Group Leaders under 40 years old) attributed by the European Society for Biomaterials.

Summary of project: Sociology of Development, South Asian Studies Unintended consequences of participatory development have been overlooked in the current development literature, despite their potential to explain cleavages among the poor who often take advantage of a project in favour of their self-interest. Part of this neglect is due to its normative assumption of participation which treats the poor as voiceless agents. My research examines some unintended consequences in the course of the collective mobilisation of slum-women by the Self-Employed Women's Association (SEWA) in Ahmedabad, India. The case study illustrates two challenges faced by SEWA: one is local power structures in the slums that were framed around social groupings other than gender. The other is the repercussion among slum-women against SEWA as a result of its short-term intervention at the expense of scaling up its activities. Nevertheless, such anomalies explain that it was SEWA that has inspired their 'capacity to aspire', whereas women in other slums remained silent of the existing patriarchal order.

Personal achievements: Awarded Ph.D in Sociology from Jawaharlal Nehru University, India March 2007. Appointed Assistant Professor at Hitotsubashi University, Graduate School of Social Sciences. Appointed to Assistant Professor at the Office for the Promotion of International Relations at Hitotsubashi from 2010 on 1-year contract.

Host professor:

Prof. Takehiko Kikuchi

Research field:

Art and Musicology

Summary of project:

Mono no Aware in Japanese art. "The pathos of things" felt in painting as therapeutic praxis.

Personal achievements:

Isabel was born in Santiago de Compostela, Spain. She graduated in Fine Arts from the Polytechnic University of Valencia and obtained a Bachelor's Art Degree at Middlesex University of London where she was Erasmus student. She also became a Doctor in Philosophy and Education at the University of Valencia after doing research on feminist aesthetics. She wrote a thesis about the sculptor Louise Bourgeois within the field of art therapy and feminism.

Right after, thanks to a scholarship of the Japanese government, she attended a master course at Okinawa Kenritsu Geijutsu Daigaku where she studied the techniques of Japanese painting. Later on, while being a Canon Foundation Fellow, she did research about Japanese literature and art at Tama Art University of Tokyo. After this, she was awarded with a Postgraduate Certificate in Teaching Japanese as a Foreign Language by the Institute of International education in London.

Her art teaching experience is related to technical drawing, artistic drawing and painting at private schools and Adult Education centres in Valencia. Besides she has been a teacher of Japanese language at the University of Valencia as well as private tutor. Concerning her art work she has exhibited in Spain, United States, England and Japan. Her professional experience also includes graphic design and illustration among other commissions.
